MARINE CHRONICLE.

Meteorological and Aquatic, High winds prevailed yesterday foreoon, culminating at about half-past two o'clock in a regular squall, accompanied by a perfect cloud-burst, pouring out an immeuse flood of water. The gale was more severe on the river than in the city, and, though it lasted but a few minutes, the boats in port were slammed about fearfully. Just about sundown another wave rolled up, but not attended by so much wind, and for an hour the earth was again deluged with a flood of water; and the prospects are fair for similar instances during the next twenty-four hours. The rivers are reported rising everywhere the signal service observers are heard from, except at Leuisville, where the condition of the river is not given. Here Big Muddy is still stationary. Below here no ma-terial change is reported in the side streams, and all have plenty of depth for the largest boats. The table and dispatches following give latest particulars

BY virtue of an interlocutory decree for Saie, entered in the above cause on the 18th day of February, 1875, I will sell, at public action, to the highest bidder, in front of the Clerk and Master's office, new courthouse building, Main street, Memphis, Tenn., on stat the full-weight barrels were much less numerous than those of light weight. The general rate of deficiency was four to six pounds below the Just weight. On weighing in the barrels the result was usually correct, but without them there was a serious deficiency; inspection showed that the barrels were not of the usual make, the hoops were heavier and the staves thicker than the regular custom requires. This shows that the deficiency was intentional; the question now is—dul the miller put the meal into the fraudulent barrels on bis own account, or was light weight or over the regular custom requires. ### Nervous and Physical Debility,

Nervous and Physical Debility,

Exhausted Vitality, Premature Decline, Abuse of the System, and such general functional derangement as springs from the above cause, or are incident to an enervated and depleted condition of the organs.

DR. CURTIS addresses himself to those who have already yielded to the suggestions, and besought the care of ignorant advertising charlatans, from whom they have received on benefit, and who, in fact, have done them more material harm than practical good. It is conceded that Meoicine, like all other sciences, is progressive, and every year but records some new development or markel advance. By a fellotions combination of remedies of acknowledged curative powers, DR. CURTIS has so arranged and adapted his treatment as to afford not only immediate relief, but radical and permanent cure.

The Medical Times says: "Dr. Curtis' system of treatment, he result of twenty years' successful practice, differs from all others in general use and commends itself to the afficied as the only true source of relief. Many cases pronounced incurable have yielded successfully to his remedies."

Dr. Curtis would again impress upon the minds of all who contemplate consulting him the duty of Calling Without Pelay.
